"MOLLYCKETT DAY CLASSIC" FOOT RACES SUCCESSFUL

The Bethel Outing Club's first venture into hosting a foot racing event was reported a tremendous success by the many spectators and 92 contestants who turned out to take part on Saturday, July 16. The foot races, the all new "Mollyckett Day Classic," co-sponsored by Foot Path Sports, were the opening events in the annual Mollyckett Day which has become a tradition benefiting the Bethel Lions Club and their service to the community.

The events included a one mile race, open to youngsters 14 years and under, a 5 kilometer and a 10 kilometer race. As the 5 Km and 10 Km were run nearly concurrently and the figure "8" courses weaved through the village streets crossing at the Bethel Common, the spectators were afforded unusually ample busy viewing.

The first 25 finishers in each race received T-shirts provided by the sponsors. In an awards ceremony following the races, each contestant received a ribbon. In addition the overall top male and female finishers in the 5 Km and 10 Km — Roger Foster, Harrison, 17:00; Pat Ouellette, Lewiston, 17:26; Kevin McDonald, Lovell, 35:09; Karen Goodberlet, West Sumner, 40:19 — were awarded decorative pottery tiles. The overall best finishers in the one mile race were: Jay Gestwicki, North Waterford, 5:39; Gail Favreau, Bethel, 6:32.

An award to the oldest competitor went to William Fox, 62, Brunswick; for the youngest, Anna Cohen, 2, Rumford Center; for the competitor from furthest away, Joseph Lamb, Charleston, S. C. Peter Weeks of Bethel received an award as the first registrant. Awards to the first Bethel finishers went to Herb Coolidge and Bob Remington.

FROM THE bethel town office

Although we live in an age of high technology, people, not machinery, make the big difference. The unspoiled success of the Mollyckett Day celebration, July 16, was the direct result of the excellent cooperation and extra endeavor of many Bethel area citizens. Rather than let some of less glamorous of these efforts pass unnoticed, it is hoped that the comments below will honor these contributions.

Thanks to the Lions Club members and Rotarians for the considerable amount of work involved in organizing the events, anticipating and eliminating potential snafus, setting out parking areas, acting as traffic cops during the events and managing the preparations for the booths and festivities on the Common.

Thanks also to the B.E.A.R.S., the Library, the Historical Society and other organizations who contributed time and effort in providing excellent booths and/or supporting the efforts of others to succeed.

Our special thanks to the Mundt-Allen Post, American Legion, for contributing a new national ensign that presides over Town Common activities. This ensign replaces the one torn by high May winds.

Kudos to the Highway Department for cleaning and preparing our streets and sidewalks that materially enhanced the aesthetic appeal and safety of the various events.

Thanks to our police men and women who maintained a high and effective visibility from early continued on Page Five

Greenwood City

— Mrs. Colista Morgan, Corres. —

This morning it was cloudy but the wind blew strongly out of the southwest. But by late afternoon it had driven most of the clouds from the sky, but the wind kept steadily on, bending the trees and shrubs until the under surface of the leaves changed their rich green to a soft gray. But the sound of the wind rushing through and the brook rushing on where I sat made lovely music. Each tree has its own voice and the birds resting among the branches added to the concert. All the while the branches were tossing wildly, I just listened to the shushsh or the high pitched s-s-s-s like a prolonged hiss. I think the finer the leaf-cut the higher-pitched are the wind-notes. The gestures of the various trees made a fascinating daily. Delicious sunshine came pouring over the hills, lighting the tops of my favorites, the pines. They, too, were chanting and bowing, their needles massed in a shimmering glow along the hill top. Nature was having a festival in which I was taking part.

I left the brook to go to the field and here I encountered a big black and yellow bumblebee. It was so big and lovely that I think it must have been a Queen. She crawled deep into a tubular flower and shoved her head down into the tube and for a moment she was still. Then there was a motion as if she were sniffing. Presently she backed out, buzzed, flew and repeated the act on another flower of the same kind. After three repetitions I left her and went on my way.

Near the summit of the hill, I looked out over the valley, then descended to the lilac growth. A catbird scolded at me as I moved down. Anyone who thinks that birds don't talk should have heard this one. He surely had a vocabulary!

Now I walked among the daisies which grew up around my knees like a golden-centered, white wave lapping the hill top. So many together carried a sickly odor or it appeared that way to my sensitive nostrils.

As I continued down, the catbird (calls faded behind me, but I knew I'd find another one, more friendly, at home.

Down along the walls the purple "sweet-pea" blooms of vetch made their dainty of color. The paintbrushes, clovers, and many more were in Nature's garden—all this gold no one had staked out for the taking.

I usually find that after climbing a mountain there is always something spirit-freeing that happens, not expected, not wished for, but because it's unexpected it is made more beautiful.

This has been a busy week. I don't know why I say this for they all are this time of year. But I like it that way. Monday, I stood on a ladder several hours painting the shed. It does look better. Since, I have mowed lawns, raked them,

— Mrs. Arline Bernier, Corres. —

Back Street has been rock raked to some extent making an improvement over the almost impassable conditions after the latest grading.

Gary and Genoria Bergeron visited his brother and took Michelle and Heather Bergeron and Nancy Atwood back to Farmington after a week's vacation here.

Laurie Bergeron and Arline Bernier lost their pocketbooks from a car parked on the Andover Road. The car was locked but the windows jimmied. Return of any of the keys, pictures, or other personal items would be much appreciated.

The sheriff was called because of excessive noise at midnight, Sunday night.

The Wells family from Ohio are here for an extended vacation.

What beautiful weather we have had lately, but oh, how the gardens need a drink of water and so do all the berries and everything else that grows from good old Mother Earth. However, guess we have to wait till it gets good and ready to rain.

Started this week off right by going to Fryeburg on Monday. Dorella Yates came with daughter Eva at 6:30 and left her with me while she and friend Carol went to exercise classes out town. She got back about 8:30 and we headed for Fryeburg. Got home about noon time. Peggy had been down, cut swiss chard and had it cooked ready to put up to freeze, so I took care of that in the afternoon. I'm sure it will taste good this winter.

Russell has taken every opportunity he had this week to work in the garden. It's hard work but the weeds seem to grow whether they have water or not.

Wednesday, Peggy went up to visit Lana Reynolds who was visiting her daughter, Julie Daye. Julie had called Peggy to let her know her mother was there.

Did you ever try to keep birds from a seeded piece of land? Russell has had a real job trying to keep the mourning doves from eating up all the buckwheat he sowed in a small garden plot out front of the house. He did a lot of shoeing as well as trying other things to scare them off, but thank goodness they aren't bothering any more at this writing. The buckwheat is up and growing good, so they leave it alone now.

Didn't work too hard Thursday as we all planned to go to Grange at Shelburne, N. H., that night. Windy and rainy. Grange was having Neighbor's night and many Granges had been invited to attend. Laura Hutchins of East Andover, Russell, Peggy and I all went from Bryant Pond.

We had a most enjoyable evening as they had a real good program and it is always nice to meet new people. It seemed good that the Maine Grangers outnumbered the New Hampshire Grangers—49 Maine Grangers, 41 New Hampshire Grangers, making quite a few in all and everyone neighborly, too. Peggy went straining with her granddaughter, Pamela Taylor of West Bethel on Friday morning. She said the picking wasn't as good as earlier in the season but got what she wanted. Had our first taste of new peas and were they good. Where the Spring was so rainy, Russell didn't get things planted as early as he wanted to so everything is a little later than usual, but those peas sure tasted good. First ones always taste the best.

Our neighbor, Bob Bates had his outfit mowing the grass, taking advantage of the good weather. Seems good to see it mowed and I like the smell of new mowed hay. Russell got what hay he had mowed put away also.

Dooryard callers were Paul Bill.

Saturday and Mollycoddett Day! Russell, Peggy and I went out to see the parade, which was real good this year. We walked around a little to see what there was and who we might see, then Peggy took Russell and me home to do other things. She went back out and we met her in town for supper. It was good as usual and made even better by having friends share the table with us. Dot Canwell, husband Harold and mother, Evelyn of Oxford; also Richard Felt of Bryant Pond, shared the table with us and we had lots of laughs to go along with the supper, so that made it even better. Dot and Richard had been playing music, along with others, most all afternoon. After supper, we all went up onto the common to wait for the fiddling contest. Had quite a wait, but was entertained by others while waiting, so enjoyed it all. Alva Morrison of Sunday River Road won the contest and we could see why after listening to him play. They sure had a good sized audience to appreciate their music.

Got up Sunday morning, put up a picnic lunch and headed for Lewiston to spend the day with my daughter Wynona Woolf and granddaughter, Courtney. Had a nice visit and it was a pleasure to see how the baby had grown. Of course, I had made her a few little dresses so was glad to see that they fitted her.

After we got home, Peggy heard that the "Outward Bound" group had been working at the Grange Hall, so rode over to see what was accomplished. It's looking good but still quite a ways to go to finish the job. Bear River Grange is very grateful for any donations toward the project. The "Outward Bound" have made their headquarters on Sunday River and it is a very commendable effort for young people.

Remember the Flea Market on August 27, and hope to hear from many groups who would like to buy "space" for selling their wares. This is to be held at the Bear River Grange Hall, from 10 a. m. to 3 p. m. We believe the Flea Market was quite a success last year so hope for even better results this year by having it earlier in the season. Call 824-2937, Russell Yates to reserve space. It isn't too early for folks to buy presents for Christmas, so keep this in mind. Christmas will be here before we know it or are ready for it.

Next Grange meeting at Bear River Grange will be Saturday, July 23 with a 6:30 potluck supper preceding the meeting. Hope all members will attend and visitors are welcome too.

Until next time, take care and pray for a little rain to help the garden and berry patches. We need the rain badly.

Letters to the Editor

July 19, 1983

To the Editor:

One of the most satisfying aspects of my position as Director of the Bethel Historical Society is the people I have come to know and appreciate. Last month while I was on vacation Bethel lost one of its finest citizens in the person of John Harrington. I had known John long before I became director of the Society but had never talked to him much about the past. When I became professionally associated with the Society I knew John would be one of the people that I could count on to recall much of what had happened in Bethel during his lifetime. I had several sessions with John and a tape recorder and the results are a remarkable record of the changes that have occurred in a small town in Maine during the last 75 years. His memories of the Irish Neighborhood, of Bethel's Main Street, of being Town Treasurer for a generation, of personalities in town, of dramatic incidents in the town's past—these and many more are what I was able to record. There obviously was much to ask John about and much of it will be lost forever, but I am grateful for the time he did spend with me telling me about his experiences, his assessment of contemporaries and his memories of particular events. These undoubtedly will be of interest to future generations.

This week Bethel lost another fine citizen in the death of Bea Conrad. I did not know Bea very well until I came to the Moses Mason House in 1974. I shall always be grateful to her for the assistance she and Cecil provided that busy summer when we were setting up the museum and trying to ensure that it would be a success. And Bea continued to be a strong friend of the museum and the Historical Society by serving as a guide and making a series of important donations. No more loyal and interested member of the Society could be found. But Bea was even more than this to the community. She gave unselfishly of herself, helping others wherever possible, supporting efforts to improve life in Bethel. And she always went the extra mile to make visitors to her tourist home feel more welcome. How often I have heard some guest visiting the Moses Mason House sing her praises for the wonderful fresh muffins and hot coffee that she had left out for them when they got up in the morning. Bea was an excellent community person with a long record of service. I shall miss her excellent hospitality and deep interest in the Society. It will be difficult this summer to look across from the post office and not see her constantly striving to maintain the beauty of her Main Street home. She was devoted to Bethel and the town is poorer with her passing.

Very sincerely,
Stanley R. Howe

July 14, 1983

To the Editor:

Recently the school board of S.A.D. 44 voted to close the third floor of the Woodstock Elementary School for the school year of 1983-84. This eliminates the most frightening problem faced by W.E.S. parents, that of 40 to 50 children trapped on the third floor or injured navigating the old metal fire escape if a fire were to occur. However, many problems remain and some new ones have been created. The main building may cost a little less to heat with most of the third floor closed, but to accommodate the first and second grades, the annex will be opened and this second building must be heated. The only space left for a library is in the annex hall. It is hardly the quiet place to read or study that one expects a library to be.

The buses will still have to turn around in the playground area. The wind will still blow around the ratty old windows in the main building.

As a Woodstock parent I ask all concerned citizens in the district to get the facts about our situation. Your school board members unanimously voted at the June 13 meeting to continue to seek a replacement for the Woodstock School. They and members of the Woodstock Parents Group stand ready to provide answers to any questions. We will be glad to talk to you individually or to your civic group.

As a concerned parent I would be in favor of a new school for safety and environmental reasons even if it would increase my tax bill considerably, but I am also descended from some tight-fisted Scotsmen and it pains me to see my tax dollars burned up to produce heat that is flowing to the outside through ratty windows and inadequate insulation. It also pains me to think of the alternative to a new school which would be to pour my dollars into the existing

MORE THAN TWO ILLEGAL ON MOTORCYCLE

Motorcycle operators are reminded that there can be no more than two people riding on a motorcycle.

"Troopers enforcing the law are concerned that motorcycle operators seem not to be aware of the passenger riding requirements pertaining to those motorcycles designed to carry more than one person," said Colonel Allan H. Weeks, chief of the Maine State Police.

Weeks said Troopers have stopped motorcycles that were carrying, besides the operator, two passengers—with one of the passengers being a baby or a young child.

Maine law (Title 29, sec. 960) states: "... a passenger may ride upon the permanent regular seat if designed for two persons, or upon another seat firmly attached to the rear or side of the operator, and provided with foot rests or in a sidecar attached to the motorcycle. . . ."

building. Last year the board estimated replacing the windows alone would cost $36,000. At that time the district share of a new building was estimated at $56,000.

MIDDLE INTERVALE MEETING HOUSE CONCERT SCORES "10"

It was a full house when Society President Harry Kuzyk welcomed everyone to the Middle Intervale Meeting House and its presentation of a summer concert on Sunday afternoon, July 17. After an invocation by the Rev. Brendon Bass, Barbara Kyzzyk, program chairman, took the floor as mistress of ceremonies.

Opening the program were the combined voices of the Congregational, Methodist and West Bethel Union Church choirs, as they filled the air with old familiar hymns. The Meeting House seemed to come alive, for many years had passed since those old walls resounded to the sound of hymns like "Amazing Grace". Next to perform was the West Bethel Union Church choir under the direction of Nesta Littlefield. Anyone entering the Meeting House at this time would certainly think that they had stepped into the past, seeing the choir dressed in old fashioned gowns and hats—a pretty sight. Then came a change in pace with Rudy Royer and his "fiddle" and accompanied at the piano by his wife, Joanne. And when the "fiddle" played, the audience couldn't refrain from clapping their hands and tapping their toes.

For the grand finale, everyone joined in a sing-a-long under the direction of Ned Hastings. "Moonlight Bay" and "Clemantine" were two of the old favorites shared by all. The final selection was the hymn "Bless Be the Tie That Binds". "For our fears, our hopes, our aims are one". Rev. Guy Downing gave the benediction—a perfect ending to a summer concert.

After a short intermission, it was Ned Hastings on the piano. Ned delighted the audience with his rendition of Mendelssohn tunes. And what is a concert without a vocal soloist? The spotlight fell on Cathy Littlefield Hoy. Then it was a duet when Cathy was joined by John Yates. Both Cathy and John are members of The Northern Lights Singers who travel the area promoting the Christian message through their singing. The next group was introduced under the heading of Instrumental Selections. There was Dorothy Canwell, piano and whistler, Richard Felt with his harmonica and Elden Hathaway on drums. The audience fell under the spell of their music by again hand clapping and toe tapping. The trio travel about performing at hospitals and nursing homes. It is a happy moment for everyone when they perform.

CANDIDATES BEING SOUGHT FOR ALGER SCHOLARSHIP

Applications are still being processed for the Alger Scholarship at Gould Academy. This scholarship fund was set up by Lt. Gen. (Ret'd) James D. Alger, a 1930 graduate of Gould and his wife, to provide a year's education at Gould for a student seeking admission to one of the four service academies in the United States.

Those high school seniors or post graduates who plan to attend the United States Military Academy at West Point, the Naval Academy at Annapolis, the Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs, or the Coast Guard Academy in New London, and who can pass the physical and educational requirements set up by these service academies, should contact Gould Academy's Admission Director Edward B. Hitchcock, 824-2196, to get additional information and application forms. All qualified applicants will be considered for the scholarship. It is a unique opportunity for someone to spend a year at an outstanding boarding school and to experience the educational and extra-curricular activities available.

Gould's college placement record is excellent and the first Alger scholar, David Britten, Skowhegan has successfully completed his first year at West Point.

LEAVE YOUNG WILDLIFE ALONE SAYS COMMISSIONER

The Maine Fish and Wildlife Department is issuing its annual request to leave wildlife alone and to refrain from feeding or "tamming" animals.

Commissioner Glenn Manuel reminds residents and visitors to Maine that this is the season when many wildlife species have their young. Often when people find young wildlife—including fawn deer, baby birds, rabbits, raccoons and others—they believe them to be lost.

In most cases, according to Manuel, the parents are simply off finding food, or have been frightened off by approaching humans and would soon return if the young were left undisturbed.

"Usually when young wildlife are picked up in the belief they are orphaned, they soon die," Manuel says. Without special training for their care and handling, most wildlife cannot survive being handled.

Another frequent problem is the artificial feeding of animals such as raccoons, bears and geese. Animals which grow dependent upon humans to feed them soon create problems for their benefactors and their neighbors, according to Manuel.

BETHEL TOWN OFFICE

continued from Page One morning to late at night, patrolling both on foot and in the cruiser. It worked! Congratulations.

The bottom line is that the Molycott celebrations "did our selves good." This means that, as members of the community, we can all share in the pride that is our Town's tradition.

Selectmen's Meeting
The Board of Selectmen met Monday evening, July 18, and acted on a long and varied agenda. A public hearing was held to receive comments from concerned citizens regarding a proposal to remove certain street lights and upgrade others with efficient high pressure sodium fixtures. Sixteen fixtures, the maximum that may be removed in a given year, were selected from a list of over 30 that do not seem to conform with the 1968 Town Meeting street light policy. Noting that no provisions for safety had been incorporated into that policy, some in attendance argued that the policy would need to be expanded and described specific examples of light placement where safety is an issue. The Board thanked those in attendance for their inputs and set the evening of Aug. 9 to conduct an on-site review of street light proposals before making a decision at the Aug. 15 Selectmen's meeting.

Water District Trustees John Head and Bob Saunders and Supervisor Don Katlin met with the Board to review and report current District matters. Among areas reviewed was the condition of the water shed (clear of the spruce bud worm), the installation of an auxiliary power unit in West Bethel to alleviate backflow problems, inspection by the Dept. of Human Services resulting in a 100% rating, use of remote reading meter, the District's financial status and areas of potential concern in the village and West Bethel. The Board thanked the Trustees for their candid and factual report.

In other action the Board approved:

How are your gardens growing? This warm weather helped mine jump into the air. Did you ever see the foliage so thick on the trees? I guess the rainy spring helped them out.

Does anyone want a woodchuck? I have one anyone can have if you can catch him.

Now you all have fun but in the right way. Think twice before starting out and ask yourself, "Is this the right thing to do?" and you won't get into any trouble, hopefully.

T.T.A.E.R.S. News

(Tri-Town Ambulance & Emergency Rescue Service)

Tri-Town had a good meeting Wednesday night, July 13, with Darlene Holden, S.M.H. Emergency Room head nurse, and Harry, respiratory therapist at S.M.H., discussing oxygen therapy, and analyzing some of the recent runs.

The next training session will be on the last Wednesday of the month at Twitchell Pond. Zeba Weidner and Jane Chandler will be teaching water rescue beginning at 6 p.m.

The Auxiliary is planning a public baked bean casserole supper on Saturday evening, Aug. 5, at the West Paris Grange Hall. More details later on this.

Safety Tip of the Week

Be cautious when mowing the lawn. Wear shoes so toes don't get near the blades of the lawnmower. When cleaning stones and grass out, be sure the motor is turned off. Keep pets away from all mowing equipment, especially when mowing hay fields. And have children stay back from the mowers as they may throw stones.

The smell of new mown hay drifting lazily in from the open countryside, hanging pungently upon the breezes, takes me back to one glorious summer—for just an instant. There is nothing to me, so sweet smelling as the new mown hay and no Parisian perfume has ever been concocted to excel its unique aroma. When working on the "farm" as a young lady, I stayed inside the huge kitchen and prepared the meals, did the canning, berrying and looking after the smaller children in the family, while the master and mistress of the farmstead with their older children, took to the "hay fields" for the day. At this time there were expensive mowers and balers on the market, but no one on the smaller farms was wealthy enough to purchase them, so all the labor was done by hand with the whole family "pitching in" and occasionally an extra "hired hand." The Mr. drove the horses with the mower hitched behind, early in the morning, while the dew was still upon the grasses, and the lady of the house and older children followed behind, tossing it about, and later raking it into "rows" or "windrows" as it proceeded to dry. This took all the better part of the morning, and in the middle of the forenoon, they returned to the airy cool farm kitchen, to splash at the basin in the black kitchen sink, refresh and quench their thirst with "switzer"—a cool drink made with cold water, molasses, and a "lad" of ginger. Then they grabbed their pitch forks, and "turned the hay" for the rest of the day. The nighttime meal was a huge one—and my job was to prepare it at 12 sharp, tidy up afterwards and spend the entire afternoon in the "berry patch" picking as many as 20 or 30 quarts of raspberries in one afternoon. These were picked over into little wooden boxes, taken down to the local store in the evening, or "poddled" from house to house for extra income. In the evening they returned home again from the fields, did the "milking" and other barn chores, while I prepared a cold hearty supper with the bowls of fresh red raspberries covered with thick cold "Jersey" cream for dessert. When the last crumb was swept up—the dishes dried and back on the shelves, the old black stove and sink polished so you could see your reflection upon them, it was only then that the huge ball of red sun began to sink slowly in the west. Everyone relaxed—"tired" but "good tired" coupled with much pride at the day's accomplishments. Folks laughed, joked and played little harmless pranks upon one another and enjoyed each other's companionship. When the first stars twinkled over the huge red barn—bulging at its seams, with its new crop of hay—the only noises were the lonely hoot of the owl, or the repetitious call of the whippoorwill—down by the brook—an occasional contented rustle of the barn animals. There were no T.V.'s—no stereos—no screeching of someone's car "rubber" or whir of motors—just contentment—sweet companionship and pride—such as that is seldom experienced today.

The newly formed Tops Club in Gilead met last Friday morning at the Library. Officers were elected: Leader, Linsley Chapman; Co-Leader, Emeline Heath; Secretary, Louise Loring; Weight Recorder, Bev Corriveau; Asst. Weight Recorder, Nancy Corriveau. There are 10 members at present, new members are invited to meet with them Friday mornings at 10 a. m. at the Town Library. A surprise gift was received by the Club from Tops #76 of Locke Mills—a bouquet of helium filled colorful balloons, to aid the group in getting off the ground and sending them soaring to success. After the meeting, each member inscribed her name and address upon a balloon and the strings were let go. At last appearance they were soaring high in the atmosphere, headed in a southeasterly direction, and if this is any indication of the club's prosperity, they cannot fail. Many thanks to all our dear friends in Locke Mills, who so thoughtfully added to the austerity of the occasion.

JACKSON-SILVER POST #68
SPECIAL MEETING JULY 28

A special meeting of Jackson-Silver Post #68, has been called by Commander Charles Mason, for Thursday, July 28, at 7:30.

OUTWARD BOUND

"Outward Bound"! What is it?? Young people from many walks of life, learning more about themselves and others, through daily associations. They learn to reach out and give to others without thought of recognition, or pay. They live at the "mercy of the elements"; camping on mountain trails; and build confidence in themselves.

As Tony LaCasse, an instructor, puts it: "They develop a sense of responsibility for others into the environment through work projects, and rescue preparedness." (They have helped in many mountain rescues in Maine and New Hampshire, as they are very familiar with the Appalachian Trail as well as many others.)

This group, based at Sunday River, Maine, is a part of Hurricane Island Outward Bound, in Penobscot Bay.

MEN'S SOFTBALL LEAGUE

Season play will be completed next week.

FROM THE BETHEL AREA HEALTH CENTER

Mollycoddett Day Report

The Bethel Area Health Center activities were very much in evidence on the Common on Mollycoddett Day.

Staff, Council members and volunteers put many hours of labor into various projects. Vicki Rack- life ran two community interest projects, a pie baking contest and a frog-jumping contest that will hopefully become annual events.

The pie-baking contest had 10 entries. Three judges—plus a couple of volunteer tasters in the crowd decided on three winners. Cathy Newell won first prize; Judy Has- kell, second, and Leah Deegan, third.

At 2:00 the grand event—the Frog Jumping contest took place. There were 38 frogs, families and children entered. The grand prize winner was Brian Anderson with a 45" jump. Second prize went to Leah Bonnama who had a 41" jump, and Patrick Feeney was third with approximately a 40" jump.

Many thanks to the youth balloon sellers, Nathan and Matthew Bean, Christopher and Kristen Powell, Sarah Kailey and Emily Keyes, who did such an excellent job of salesmanship. Thank you so much!

Kay Swain, family and friends worked very hard on the float that the Health Center entered under the theme "Maine vacation land—safety first!" Thanks to the small fry who rode on the entry.

The breath machine that was displayed was of great interest to everyone and demonstrations were given from 9:30-4:00. The car seat program was also of great interest and more information will be available on this program in the near future, so watch the Bethel Citizen for details.

Kay Swain, family and friends worked very hard on the float that the Health Center entered under the theme "Maine vacation land—safety first!" Thanks to the small fry who rode on the entry.

The breath machine that was displayed was of great interest to everyone and demonstrations were given from 9:30-4:00. The car seat program was also of great interest and more information will be available on this program in the near future, so watch the Bethel Citizen for details.

At 2:00 the grand event—the Frog Jumping contest took place. There were 38 frogs, families and children entered. The grand prize winner was Brian Anderson with a 45" jump. Second prize went to Leah Bonnama who had a 41" jump, and Patrick Feeney was third with approximately a 40" jump.

Many thanks to the youth balloon sellers, Nathan and Matthew Bean, Christopher and Kristen Powell, Sarah Kailey and Emily Keyes, who did such an excellent job of salesmanship. Thank you so much!

23 PEDESTRIAN FATALITIES ON MAINE ROADS IN 1982

Twenty-three pedestrians were killed and 450 were injured on Maine roads during 1982 according to statistics released by the Maine State Police.

Six (or one-fourth) of the ped- estrians killed were attempting to cross a road, and one was killed crossing at an intersection. Sev- enteen (or nearly three-fourths) of the pedestrians killed had been involved in accidents that occurred after dark. In a number of these tragedies, the pedestrians involved wore dark clothing and some had been drinking.

"These needless deaths could have been prevented if motorists had been on the look out for ped- estrians and those walking had followed the pedestrian safety rules," said Colonel Allan H. Weeks, chief of the Maine State Police.

Col. Weeks said personal injury accidents and even death may be avoided if pedestrians walk fac- ing traffic, wear bright-colored or reflective clothing, use a flash- light at night, and look both ways when crossing a road.

traffic safety programs on such to- pics as safe driving habits, driver education, pedestrian and bicycle safety, they can't alleviate this tragic situation alone," Weeks said. Locke Mills

— Mrs. John Mills, Corres. —

North Pond Sailing Association held another regatta Sunday on North Pond, with a good turn out. Winners were David Gilpatrick, South Paris; Bill Riley, Gore Road, Woodstock; and Blaine Mills. Next Sunday, July 24, another race will be held on North Pond beginning at 1 p. m. Those wishing to race at Harpswell July 30 and plan to have a shore dinner, are asked to get in touch with Blaine Mills at the Lee Mills' residence as soon as possible as dinner reservations must be made.

The Greenwood Fire Department held a training session Tuesday evening at the Fire House and practiced laying hose for use in forest fire.

Sincere sympathy is extended to the family of Wendall (Tubby) Roberts. Also sympathy to my aunt, Leona Flint, and other family members in the loss of her sister, Beatrice Conrad.

Stress seems to be affecting more than just people these days. A pair of bluebirds tried to nest in the back yard of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Mills, but were harassed by a cat. The female bird then tried to nest a couple of other places, but has not produced more eggs.

Although very shy birds, the male has exhibited bizarre behavior and become a Peeping Tom so to speak. He goes around the house pecking at windows and peering inside.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Tyler, North Stratford, N. H., and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bresette, Standish, spent the week end of July 4 camping at Charlotte Cole's camp lot. After attending church, they visited with Mrs. Gail Scribner, East Bethel, who is a cousin to Mrs. Tyler.

Mrs. Tyler also accompanied Charlotte Cole to the nursing home to visit Lester Cole and on the way home stopped to see Lyla and Erwin Ellingswood.

Mrs. Diana Dickinson and son, Jason, Torrington, Conn., have been spending a few days with her grandmother, Mrs. Lillian Lap- ham. On Wednesday, they visited with her other grandmother, Mrs. Esther Farnum, South Paris.

Mrs. Alice Ledger, Groton, Conn., has been visiting Mrs. Pierrette Murphy at her camp near Twit- chell Pond. They were Friday dinner guests of Charlotte Cole. Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Noyes, Wilton, were supper guests the same day after visiting her father, Lester Cole, at Andrews Nursing Home, South Paris.

Troy and Kelly Lord accompan- ied their parents, Cindy and Al- mon Gross, to the coast last week and spent every day clamming.

Mr. and Mrs. Wentworth Potter, Julie and Suzanne, Chesterfield, Mo., have arrived at camp for a vacation.

The Greenwood Firemen's Auxil- iary served almost 100 people at the Senior Citizen roast beef din- ner last Wednesday at the Town Hall.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Wendall Roberts wishes to express deep apprecia- tion to all their friends and neigh- bors for their cards, flowers and other kindnesses. To Rev. Nor- man Rust, the Greenleaf Funeral Home, and to all others who ex- pressed their sympathy in so many ways, a sincere thank you.

Also my special thanks to all scores received at the state games, competed in 10 official athletic events and had the opportunity to attend sports training clinics. Ms. Brooks was one of approximately 65,000 spectators at the games.
